

Mississippi Annual Conference

2006 Giving Report

ONE MARK OF A HEALTHY CHURCH IS A STRONG PATTERN OF GIVING. CHURCHES IN THE MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE DEMONSTRATED THEIR HEALTH AND STRENGTH IN 2006 BY INCREASING THEIR APPORTIONED GIVING A YEAR AFTER THE BIGGEST DISASTER IN U.S. HISTORY STRUCK THE STATE.

“We have so much to be thankful for as we review the stewardship and giving of the local churches of our conference,” said David Stotts, conference treasurer. “We had more churches at 100 percent in 2006 and fewer not giving at all to the apportionments.”

For the first time in five years, the number of 100-percent churches increased. (See the chart on this page.) Churches gave $16,198,515.94, or 87.06 percent of the conference budget. The 2006 budget was $18,605,585.

“All of this is good, joyful news. In the year of great economic impact from Hurricane Katrina, we celebrate an increase in generosity toward our shared ministry,” said Bishop Hope Morgan Ward.

Stotts observed that the conference achieved two fundamentals of financial health: having more funds on hand and spending less than it received. “Our churches gave .04 percent more in 2006 than in 2005, an increase of $869,163 in actual dollars.

STRONG

We also spent $161,577 less than we received in 2006. Any accountant will tell you this is the way to stay solvent.”

Churches gave $1,721,145 in second-mile giving beyond apportionments in 2006, he added.

Each church's level of giving to apportionments is listed in this insert. The budget is proportionally allocated to local churches. In the conference's apportionment formula, how much a local church spends on itself for staff, programs and operations helps determine the church's apportionment.

Conference leaders singled out two districts for special praise. “I am so proud of the Seashore District and their giving,” Stotts said. “In that district 17 churches gave more in 2006 than they gave in 2005, and 55 churches achieved 100 percent on their own.” In addition 25 churches received help to remain at their pre-Katrina giving level.

For the second year in a row, the Starkville District led all districts in apportioned giving and increased both the percentage and dollar amount given. Eight districts increased their giving percentage and amounts over 2005. (See the chart inside.)

“We show the United Methodist connection through our giving. Our gifts support not only our local church, but also conference initiatives and national and international programs,” said Delmar Robinson, chair of the conference Council on Finance and Administration.

Stotts hopes to see the conference top 90 percent in apportioned giving in 2007. “When we see that our dollars go into ministry over the whole world, it makes John Wesley's statement that ‘the world is our parish’ become very clear,” said Stotts. “The help we received from the world for Katrina relief made this crystal clear.

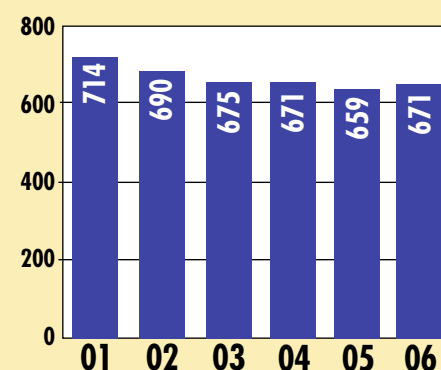

“While we are back to strength, I believe that is not enough. We must make strides to move forward in our part of the ministry we are called to as United Methodists in the world.”

United Methodists give less than 3 percent of their income on average, he pointed out. “That is not even close to a tithe. Can we all agree that we will move forward step-by-step in the months to come to teach and practice stewardship until we all reach the tithing level?”

Said Robinson, “We've got to remember that every dollar we get, God gives us the mind, the strength, the health to earn it. Giving back, even in tough times, is our response.”
